

June 21, 2004

This evening, I received a message from a new RPCV from Mozambique. He wrote to ask if we might put a link to a special project he is involved with, "The World Through My Eyes." I had a look at the project, and it is very special.

Therefore, I added the link to the FoT site's Links page and encourage you to have a look at the project, as well.

What you will find is another reminder of how extraordinarily creative and dedicated PCVs and RPCVs are the world over.

To access the site, go to <http://www.friendsofthailand.org/links/thailandlinks.html>, and click on The World Through My Eyes button. (I promise this one will not go away in a couple days)

And, if there are any other links you would like to recommend for this page of the FoT web site, send them along.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Nickels-Cox
